don't let the state decide living trusts wills estate planning for aging parents a family organizer's roadmap to protecting assets and avoiding probate if you have ever searched for how to help my aging parent set up a living trust or what happens if my parent dies without a will you already understand why this book exists most estate planning books are written for the person creating the trust this guide is written for the adult child the son or daughter who has realized that their aging parent has no will no living trust and no plan and that someone needs to do something about it before a health crisis cognitive decline or family conflict makes everything dramatically harder living trusts wills and estate planning for aging parents is a comprehensive family guide to the entire estate planning process written from the perspective of the person who is organizing facilitating and often emotionally managing it all the book begins where every family actually begins not with legal documents but with the conversation why do aging parents resist estate planning what are the right words to use and which ones shut the conversation down immediately what do you do when siblings disagree about whether to get involved or when one parent is willing and the other refuses to engage from there the guide moves through every essential element of estate planning for a senior family member the difference between a revocable living trust and a last will and testament why probate is more costly and time consuming than most families expect how a properly funded living trust protects the family home and other assets and how to set up the five core legal documents every aging parent needs regardless of their level of wealth the guide also addresses the situations that standard estate planning books overlook entirely how do you navigate estate planning when cognitive decline has already begun and the legal capacity window is closing what protections exist for a parent who is vulnerable to elder financial fraud how do blended families second marriages and special needs dependents change the estate planning equation what does the medicaid five year asset lookback rule mean for families facing long term care costs and what can still be done if the timeline is short each chapter connects legal information to real family situations offering practical guidance that goes beyond knowing the law to understanding how to apply it when relationships emotions and family dynamics are part of the equation the book closes with a complete family organizer system a master checklist that takes the reader from the first conversation through fully signed and funded documents including guidance on where to store everything who needs to know where it is and how to keep the plan current as circumstances change for the adult child who has been putting off this conversation or who is in the middle of a family situation that feels overwhelming this guide offers something more valuable than legal information alone it offers a clear compassionate and practical path forward written by someone who understands that the hardest part of estate planning for aging parents is rarely the paperwork death is the last thing anyone wants to talk about this pandemic has brought it to the forefront set up a end of life plan we always think that death won t come knocking on our door and some people even think that by talking about death you invite it in i have dealt with a couple of deaths in my lifetime and have learned that death does not wait for us to be ready and when someone dies the very loved ones that they leave behind are also left with a magnitude of problems in trying to sort out basic documents the mere fact that there are over r80 million in unclaimed benefits in south africa alone attest to the fact that many loved ones were kept in the dark about basic information this guide serves to give your guidance in compiling your own end of life plan to show your loved ones you cared this plan will not only help if you die but can also be used in case of an accident or other emergency containing reports from pennsylvania judicial districts and other leading decisions the year is 2025 immense numbers of people swarm the globe in countless astonishing ways technology has triumphed but at a staggering cost starvation is rampant city dwellers gasp for breath under blackened skies and tottering on the brink of environmental collapse the world may be ending it is a future that could well be ours in their second shocking and fascinating portrait of america s possible destiny whitley strieber and james kunetka have again written a breathless thriller a book that gives us an important warning and ultimately a message of hope
