this book deals with the dimensions of ethnicity and ethnic interaction in northeast africa it proposes a mechanism to establish a condition of peaceful co existence among ethnic groups in the region contents list of tables and diagrams foreword preface acknowledgements language and ethnicity religion and ethnicity territory and ethnicity conflict history conflict management systems peace democracy and regulation of conflict references index this book presents an analysis of the identity of the agro pastoral saho community in eritrea which was cemented during centuries of confrontation with abyssinian rulers and by their rebellion against external domination it examines the emergence of the saho s national consciousness and the process of political identity formation during the british military administration in competition with the pro ethiopian unionist party the book describes the active participation of the saho in the national liberation struggle of eritrea and it evaluates the impact of post independence policies of the eritrean people s liberation front people s front for democracy and justice on the saho community series african politics politiques africaines vol 5 i congratulate andebrhan welde giorgis on his high quality and extremely informative book that has not only the merit to be an update on the political situation in eritrea but also asks the pertinent questions on the future of his marvelous country he does it with tact and success based on his long experience as freedom fighter as senior public servant as ambassador and his rich experience of africa each country in africa must be able to determine its own future freedom responsibility control over its destiny and solidarity are the key ideas of the new vision for international cooperation that will help ensure the sustainability of the development process the urgent need to create a democratic government resonates throughout the book good governance respect for human rights principles of democracy and rule of law are essential universal values underpinning it andebrhan is one of those men visionaries and open to dialogue reform and change eritrea at a crossroads is key to understanding the challenges facing eritrea and africa it is an eye opener on a complex and little understood crisis that is festering in africa and holding the continent back the book provides a solid intellectual foundation to understanding the region and will give anyone who wants to build a better future for africa a great starting point i congratulate him on this most valuable book which finds its place among all the lovers of africa louis michel member of european parliament european commissioner for development and humanitarian aid 2004 2009 and foreign minister of belgium 1999 2004 freedom fighter scholar central banker diplomat and now unhappy exile no one could be better placed than andebrhan welde giorgis to trace eritrea s distressing slide from triumph to tragedy it s a harrowing story but the author tells it comprehensively objectively and lucidly in this excellent study the future can be rescued as andebrhan makes clear but only if the past is understood and the present confronted by decent concerned eritreans acting with the moral political and economic support of the wider international community may his voice be heard gareth evans chancellor australian national university president international crisis group 2000 09 and foreign minister of australia 1988 96 in 1998 a bloody war erupted in the horn of africa between ethiopia and eritrea during the war ethiopia arrested and expelled 70 000 of its citizens and stripped another 50 000 plus of their citizenship on the basis of their presumed ethnicity nationalism law and statelessness grand illusions in the horn of africa examines the events which led up to the war documents the expulsions and denationalisations that took place and follows the flight of these stateless ethiopians out of the horn into europe the core issue examined is the link between sovereignty and statelessness as this plays out in the horn of africa and in the west the book provides a valuable insight into how nations create and perpetuate statelessness the failure of law both national and international to protect and address the plight of stateless persons and the illusory nature of nationalism citizenship and human rights in the modern age the study is one of a very few which examines the problem of statelessness through the accounts of stateless persons themselves this book will be of great interest to students and researchers in anthropology law politics african studies and refugee studies as well as professionals and all those interested in stateless persons in the west including eritreans who continue to be denied basic rights the horn of africa is a deeply troubled region engulfed in three interlocking crises the first is a security crisis characterized by a range of devastating inter state and inter communal conflicts including civil wars the second is an economic crisis evidenced by widespread debilitating poverty chronic food insecurity and frequent cycles of famines the effects of the third environmental crisis are all too visible in the droughts deforestation and desertification ravaging the region what is more these three crises are mutually reinforcing locking the region into a cycle of disaster conflicts contribute to poverty which in turn intensifies environmental degradation leading to scarcities which fuel further conflicts in this clear and authoritative guide kidane mengisteab explores the key drivers of instability in the horn of africa suggesting structural and institutional changes that if implemented could help lift the region out of crisis the horn s complex crises must be tackled in a comprehensive manner but he contends this can only be achieved if the causes of conflict are addressed head on without peace the region cannot resolve its economic problems and nor can it develop the capabilities required to cope with environmental change the horn of africa will be essential reading for students and scholars in conflict and security studies as well as anyone with an interest in learning more about the dynamics of this troubled region state building in post liberation eritrea explores the potentials achievements and challenges facing eritrea in its efforts to construct a viable state after it became independent in 1991 de facto and 1993 de jure it also examines the post liberation experience of state building focusing on the institutionalisation bureaucratisation and democratisation of state organs the eritrean state s legitimacy and popularity initially rested on the track record of the eritrean people s liberation front s eplf its efficiency organisational skill and capacity to mobilise the population which spawned hopes and optimism about the future the book also analyses what happened to those great hopes and optimisms by examining its achievements and failures in this regard it equally analyses the role played by external factors particularly the second war with ethiopia and its implications for state building in eritrea the traditional systems of land tenure and kinship in highland eritrea are today challenged by the new reform policies of the eritrean government an integral part of their development strategies is to sustain and enhance national sentiments created during the liberation war by disentangling the closely knit rural communities dismantling their corporate character and linking the individual citizen directly to the state apparatus in order to foster an all embracing notion of national identity one significant element is dragging the world community toward the necessity of going beyond national borders and interests to work together in the face of the new challenges that it poses the environment and its security

today the biggest and maybe the most neglected threat to humanity in many pundits eyes is global warming the implications of subsequent climate change will have far reaching impacts in all regions of the world but they require special attention in industrialized countries that have compounded the consequences for the rest of the world which is classified as developing or undeveloped the challenge on the other hand does not acknowledge differences and thus requires collective action just to mention a few some of the most felt effects of climate change are rising sea levels resource depletion freshwater shortages deforestation biodiversity loss and natural disasters like floods hurricanes droughts and wildfires indeed according to the latest data from the world health organization it is estimated that in the period between 2030 to 2050 climate change alone will cause approximately 250 000 additional deaths per year because of malnutrition malaria diarrhea and heat stress the severity of these environmental problems has brought to the fore profound discussions on their impact on humans states and the world as a whole as a result debates over the securitization of the environment have gained prominence especially in the late 1970s due to the oil crises and early 1990s as the cold war came to an end on the one hand the main focus of these debates has been on the impact that resource scarcity has on national security and cross border conflicts on the other hand moving away from the traditional understanding of security the debates have concentrated on human security specifically the threat that the environmental changes pose to the existence of human life on this planet alongside these discussions considering that the environmental changes have a global impact several international efforts have taken place to address these issues and find possible solutions starting in 1972 with the first world conference on environment united nations conference on the human environment in stockholm several other undertakings have been held especially after the end of the cold war i e the earth summit in 1992 which led later to the ratification of the united nations framework convention on climate change unfccc within the latter s framework the un holds yearly conferences conference of parties cop that tackle the latest issues on climate change and environmental security the most recent one held in glasgow scotland it is indeed these conferences that led to important international charters such as the kyoto protocol and paris agreement in the light of these events states have started to change and adopt their national security policies by taking into consideration the above mentioned agreements and the ongoing environmental changes however despite these efforts the world faces several environmental problems which emphasize the need for rapid and direct action as an illustration just in recent months as the world is shaken by the russia ukraine war it has once again been demonstrated that environmental security in this case in terms of food security goes beyond the borders and will have a global impact türkiye like all other nations is facing the harsh reality of global change and looking into the challenge of dealing with its ramifications ankara joined the kyoto protocol in 2009 and the paris agreement in october 2021 under president erdoğan türkiye is committed to reaching net zero carbon emissions by 2053 through the implementation of these initiatives it was noted in türkiye s eleventh development plan 2019 2023 that the country was committed to making significant economic and social changes to implement a green revolution one element of the larger initiative to construct green cities being the national green building certificate system furthermore the ministry of environment urbanization and climate change of türkiye developed a regional climate change course of action outlining the steps that must be taken to assuage the negative consequences of climate change the ministry emphasized its awareness of the need for fresh approaches to protect water sources lower water use improve rain harvests recycle water and build drip irrigation systems when it adopted the national climate adaptation strategy and course of change 2011 2023 to better understand and reflect on these effects in this special issue of insight turkey we invited scholarly papers focusing on the dimensions of environmental security and their impact on international politics as with all our past special issues we have focused on türkiye s policy efforts to mitigate the harmful effects of environmental change to account for the nexus between geopolitics and environmental security peter hough s commentary approaches the issue from a supranational angle by bringing under the spotlight the great power competition in the arctic the author argues that although the arctic is still not an arena for war due to geopolitical rivalry among world powers environmental issues pose the greatest dangers as intergovernmental ties in the area deteriorate according to hough russian energy export disruptions caused by western sanctions may force the kremlin to explore ecologically destructive initiatives further north canada may also be tempted to make up for energy shortages by restarting controversial drilling projects that were previously abandoned the sparsely inhabited arctic is unable to deal with oil spills and additional incursions would result in higher pollution and much more destructive social disturbance in a similar vein in our second commentary lassi heininen assumes that although there is a new east west great power competition with its associated conflicts in international politics no violent conflicts arise in the arctic but environmental degradation and rapid climate change continue to endanger the inhabitants the author further highlights the fact that in international politics there is an urgent need to expand beyond the unified state system and achieve what was previously done domestically on a global planetary scale yet this is not occurring overall both commentaries on the arctic reveal that the post cold war arctic is an intriguing case study for emphasizing the importance of the environment as well as a reminder that high geopolitical stability and mutually beneficial common interests are both products of and prerequisites for effective collaboration in our third on topic commentary karim elgendy focuses on a more disputed case namely the east mediterranean as the author rightly points out the eastern mediterranean area is a disjointed area covering a diverse group of countries formed by core topography and overlapping geopolitical goals one thing is a common concern though the climatic issues and a system for cooperation urgently in the eastern mediterranean three on topic research articles two from a local viewpoint and one from an international one are included in our special edition and focus on the relationship between environmental security and climate change ayşegül kibaroğlu uses institutional and cross sector energy and food analyses to define türkiye s water security policies and practices with a particular focus on the transboundary water security strategies of türkiye the author concludes that a strong institutional structure notably at the state level has been built to achieve türkiye s overall socio economic development objectives which depend on the development of water and land resources the need for improved governance with proper coordination and cooperation among the public private and non governmental institutions in charge of securing water for agricultural and hydropower development domestic and industrial uses as well as the preservation and protection of the environment is however necessitated by the various types of increasing pressures on scarce water resources following up İzzet arı evaluates the framework of turkish national climate policy against the backdrop of global climate change discussions the paper succinctly explains how türkiye is helping to combat climate change on a global scale the basic tenets of türkiye s stance in climate negotiations include climate justice taking into account the historical obligations of industrialized nations the common but differentiated responsibilities and respective capabilities cbdr rc concept and equitable burden sharing among all parties as a result the paris agreement s structure obligation coverage and goals are consistent with türkiye s overall climate policy türkiye s attempts to ensure equity in the unfccc s classification of nations reflect its ambitions for climate justice in the conclusion the author warns that while türkiye s demand for climate justice must still be taken into account in current international climate discussions türkiye should incorporate and execute national climate policies into its development plans and programs in our next on topic research paper yasemin kaya questions the role of international environmental regimes iers in global environmental governance she astutely argues that as the anthropocene is fundamentally altering the contextual settings in which iers work the scope of mainstream conversations about the effectiveness of iers be widened to include the earth system viewpoint the conclusion of the paper is bitter yet insightful despite continued attempts by regimes environmental indicators reveal that there has been a tremendous increase in global environmental change the efficacy of environmental regimes is a contentious topic since iers whose purpose is to collaborate to produce solutions for environmental problems have not been sufficiently successful in this regard three off topic research articles and one commentary enrich the scope of our special issue heiran nia and monshipouri provide a thorough yet not exhaustive account of the situation of the middle class in iran which is taken to be on the slippery slope switching from its dream of political reform to the reality of economic security thus the authors fittingly refer to the iranian middle class nowadays as economically comparable to the lowest strata of society and they argue that this group largely seeks economic rather than political advancement duran in the second off topic research article of our special issue attempts to elaborate on the dynamics of the normalization process ushered in by the arab spring and türkiye s role in spearheading this process with projected outcomes aimed at long term stability in the region our final commentary by ali bakır covers the normalization procedures between the major parties in the middle east from 2021 to 2022 as well as the efforts at reconciliation and rapprochement the author subtly argues that although the normalization efforts have resulted in a fairly favorable environment in the region it is difficult to assess whether some of the essential actors are forging this new route out of a real desire to do so or simply out of pragmatism meanwhile burhanettin duran concludes that regional normalization has become a new political preference for the majority of participants although it still has certain restrictions the most significant of which is the intense global rivalry into which this normalization process evolved finally mohammed toriki bani salameh and ahmad ishakat investigate the dynamics of israel s perception of danger and security policy by integrating the two major theoretical frameworks of constructivism and realism revealing how identity and security perceptions shape the policy of israel the authors believe realist constructivism can help understand israel s behavior while the importance of environmental security certainly is going to increase in the following years as more regional and global actors will join the fight against the climate change it is critical to examine and understand the issue from geopolitical economic and legal perspectives with that said we are confident that this issue of insight turkey entitled rethinking environmental security in türkiye and beyond will present timely studies regarding environmental security a complex and increasingly important issue for türkiye and the world social conflict is routinely attributed to ethnic differentiation because dividing lines between rival groups often follow ethnic contours and cultural symbolism has often proved a potent ideological weapon the purpose of this book is to examine the nature of the bond linking ethnicity to conflict in a variety of circumstances the ten case studies from the sudan ethiopia uganda and kenya are based on primary research by anthropologists and historians who have long experience of the region north america ohio u press uganda fountain publishers kenya eaep violent internal conflicts are the predominant form of warfare in the world today and there is an urgent need to understand their causes and find ways for their prevention and resolution the book present a variety of perspectives conceptions arguments and conclusions regarding ethnicity power and conflict in the contemporary world eritrea has no official language tigrinya arabic and english are all used in government tigrinya is spoken by highlanders and is related to tigre spoken in the western and eastern lowlands tigrinya and tigre like arabic are semitic tongues arabic native to the rashaida is widely used in commerce minority groups speak their native languages but are familiar with tigrinya or arabic except for the rashaida and hadareb whose language is called to bedawi the language names are the same as their respective ethnic group name most eritreans follow islam or christianity roughly 40 percent each but indigenous religious beliefs are still widespread although roman catholics and protestants are found among the more affluent and westernized eritreans most christians are orthodox arranged alphabetically by country and using a standard entry format for easy comparison this volume provides an overview of each country s shared values behaviors and cultural variations in multilingual societies school is an arena in which three potentially conflicting dimensions of language policy meet language as a right language as a resource and language as a problem school is an instrument in the implementation of a country s official language policy and also an institution in which about language confront the actual behavior of teachers and pupils about language consisting of different ethnolinguistic groups eritrea is an intriguing example of a multilingual country facing complex interdependencies of language social mobility ethnicity and nationalism it is special in the sense that unlike many other postcolonial african countries eritrea has decided on a policy of mother tongue education
